01 — THE RESORT

Twenty-two acres of East Vail, with room to breathe.

The resort from above, in the East Vail valley.

Vail Racquet Club Mountain Resort sits on 22 acres in the East Vail valley, along Gore Creek and surrounded by forest and high peaks.

It isn't a traditional hotel. Guests stay in fully furnished condominiums and townhomes with full kitchens and real living space, then step out to an athletic club, a year-round heated pool and the trails, rivers and slopes of the Vail Valley.

Families, friend groups, tennis players, retreat planners and longer-stay guests come for the same thing: room to be active, and room to slow down.

02 — ACCOMMODATIONS

Room to settle in.

Condominiums and townhomes with the comforts of home.

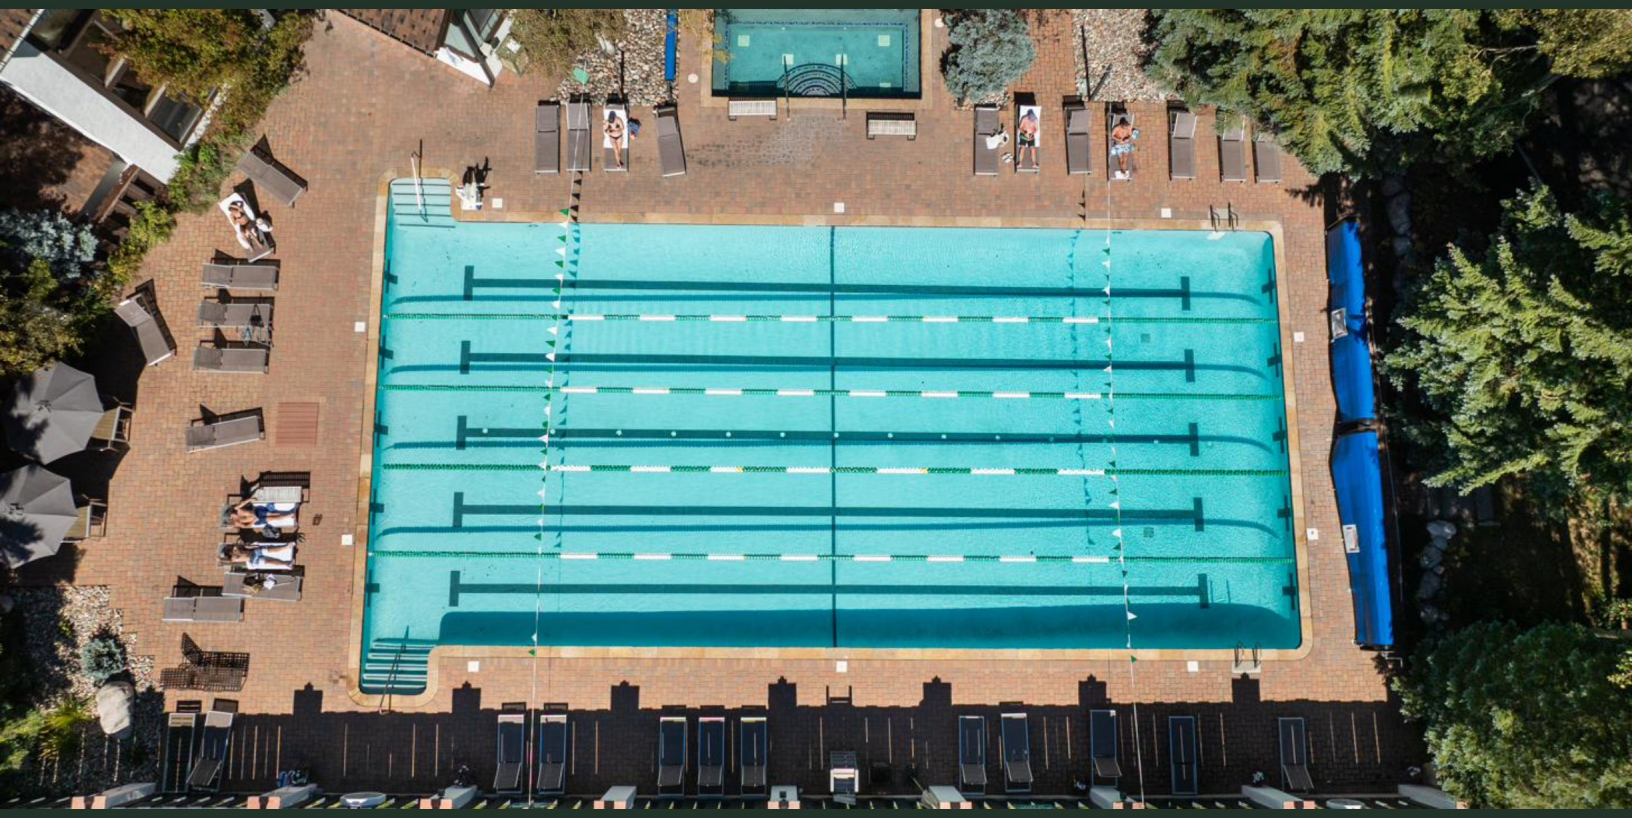

Residences are individually owned; layouts and decor vary. Photographs show representative units.

Choose from fully furnished one-, two- and three-bedroom condominiums and three-bedroom townhomes, set up for the way people actually travel: breakfast in the kitchen before the mountain, evenings by the fire, space to spread out.

Because each residence is individually owned, no two are quite alike. That gives every stay its own character, and makes the resort a natural fit for families, couples and multi-generational groups who want more space and independence than a hotel room allows.

IN THE RESIDENCES

- Fully equipped kitchens
- Living and dining areas
- Fireplaces
- Private bedrooms and baths
- Mountain surroundings

03 — POOL & SPA

Swim in the snow. Then soak, steam and plunge.

At the center of the resort is an athletic club of approximately 6,000 square feet, with a heated outdoor pool that stays open year-round. A swim with snow on the deck is part of a winter stay here.

Afterward, guests move between the outdoor hot tubs, Finnish-style sauna and steam rooms and, new in 2026, a cold plunge. A massage room with an on-site massage therapist rounds out the recovery.

04 — FITNESS & CLASSES

Classes come with the stay.

Every guest can join the resort's fitness classes at no additional cost.

Yoga · Barre · Pilates · Stretch & Roll · Ski Conditioning · Masters Swim

Class schedules and offerings change monthly. Ask for the current schedule.

The athletic club has a cardio room and a weight room with strength machines, benches and free weights, plus locker rooms. Personal training is available too.

ON THE COURTS

In season, tennis and pickleball lessons, clinics and camps are available for an additional fee.

05 — FOUR SEASONS

Summer on the courts. Winter on the mountain.

Summer centers on the courts and the pool: tennis and pickleball, laps and lounging, and weekend poolside food from Après Cafe. In winter, guests head out to Vail Mountain, other area ski resorts and the White River National Forest, then come back to the pool, hot tubs and club.

01 Fitness classes, included

Yoga, barre, Pilates, stretch and roll, ski conditioning and masters swim are included for every guest at no additional cost, so a daily class is as easy to fit in as a morning coffee.

02 Open-air swimming, all year

The heated outdoor pool is open year-round. Pair a snowy swim with the hot tubs, sauna, steam and the new cold plunge for a hot-and-cold circuit, mountain style.

03 Racquet sports in the Rockies

Tennis and pickleball courts sit in an aspen-lined valley beneath the peaks, open seasonally, with clinics and lessons available for players who want to sharpen their game.

04 The quieter side of Vail

In East Vail, guests trade hotel rooms for condos and townhomes with full kitchens, then hop on the free Town of Vail bus from two stops on property to Vail Village.
